TRANSFRIGORROUTE, the platform for temperature-controlled transport logistics, is celebrating its 70th anniversary and inviting guests to Munich.

Wednesday, October 15 – Friday, October 17, 2025 in Munich,
MAN Truck Forum with exhibition

All parties interested in temperature-controlled transport logistics are welcome – whether they are thermologists, the refrigerated vehicle industry, food/pharmaceutical producers, or service providers in these segments – regardless of their country of origin. Non-members are also very welcome!

MAN is providing us with its MAN Truck Forum as the conference venue.

The aim is to discuss the current challenges and innovations in the industry and to expand your network. In the accompanying exhibition at the Truck Forum, you will have the opportunity to learn about the latest products for temperature-controlled transport logistics and, among other things, test drive the latest generations of MAN vans, trucks, and eTrucks.

Despite increasing digitalization, we would like to place a special emphasis on physical interaction on site and offer entrepreneurs the opportunity to discuss everyday challenges at FRIGOCLUB, as well as to get to know each other and network in voluntary speed dating zones or in the accompanying or evening program.

We cordially invite you to attend the event! Feel free to bring your business partners or let us know which thermologists you have always wanted to meet in person. We will invite them.

KEY NOTE

„ Between the fronts – decisions under pressure“

Urs Meier, former World Cup, European Championship, Champions League, and UEFA Cup referee

This is about decisions and what it takes to make them. In today's world, it is becoming increasingly difficult to make decisions—and when they are made, they are often double-checked. This balancing act in professional life has parallels in private life—but also in sports. Urs Meier presents in an exciting way the requirements that must be met in order to be perceived as a natural authority. How can decisions be enforced with competence, humor, and a clear line? Using examples from his practice as a referee, but also as an entrepreneur, he highlights the connections between sports and business.

Guided Old Town Tour & Viktualienmarkt

A cosmopolitan city with heart

Munich's cityscape is characterized by centuries-old buildings and numerous museums. On a guided tour of the old town, you will discover the most beautiful places and learn many interesting stories. It all began at Marienplatz, the former market square and most central point of Munich. Here, the search for traces of Munich's history begins, from its origins as a market on the old salt road to the metropolis it is today. But why are there two town halls, and why does the New Town Hall look older than the Old Town Hall? The oldest church in the city, St. Peter's on Petersberg, was almost completely destroyed during World War II, but was rebuilt with the help of a special idea. But what does the traffic news on Bayern 3 have to do with it? In the Old Court, the first residence of the Wittelsbach family, you will learn how the Monkey Tower got its name. And what is the story behind the origins of the Theatine Church? There is much to discover...

The proof of the pudding is in the eating

As part of a Viktualienmarkt tasting tour, delicious delicacies are offered at lunchtime at various market stalls, accompanied by historical and current background information. A multitude of culinary discoveries and delights make this walk through Germany's largest open-air market, covering 22,000 m², an experience for all the senses. Countless stories during the tour take you through the history of the market to the present day: How did the Viktualienmarkt come into being? Since when has the dance of the market women existed? Where do the market people take their goods in the evening? How do you get a stall and how much do the stall owners have to pay to the city?

At court with the maid – a very special kind of tour

The talkative chambermaid takes advantage of her mistress's absence to give you a private tour and reveal first-hand information. The maid first leads you to the Stone Hall, the castle's banquet hall. This is where the mistress indulges in lavish celebrations. The maid proudly explains the elaborate ceiling fresco, which pays homage to the nymph Flora, who became a goddess. In the master's chambers, there are some curious portraits to admire, about which the maid has much to say. The Electress Marie Amalie, for example, was a gifted huntress, but she wore far too much white lead makeup. The bitter consequence was terrible scars and wrinkles. The maid also has plenty to say about the young Maria Leopoldine. The 17-year-old Archduchess of Austria-Este was married to the 70-year-old Elector of Munich, Karl Theodor. Instead of blessing her husband with children, however, she amused herself with much younger lovers. What a scandal! The finest tapestries, screens, and chinoiserie, elegant luxury furniture, elaborate stucco work, and expensive paintings line the rest of the way through the palace. In the bedchamber of the gracious Queen Caroline, the maid admires her mistress's elegant bed made of exotic mahogany wood and covered with emerald green linen. It was in this venerable bed that Ludwig II, the legendary fairy-tale king, first saw the light of day. .

Day trip to Lake Tegernsee

Departure from the hotel at approximately 9:00 a.m. /

Return at approximately 6:00 p.m.

The picturesque mountains, the scenic landscape of the Alpine foothills, and Bavarian hospitality...

The most pleasant way to explore the region is from the water—with a relaxing trip on Lake Tegernsee, passing by the most picturesque places. The Wallberg (1,722 m), Munich's local mountain, is one of the most beautiful sights on Lake Tegernsee and dominates the view of the Tegernsee Valley from afar. The summit can be easily reached by the Wallbergbahn cable car, from where visitors can enjoy a breathtaking view of the entire valley and the mountains to the south, all the way to the Austrian border. From the mountain station, it is a good 100 meters of elevation gain to the summit, which can be covered in about half an hour.

Cost: 125 euros per person – all inclusive, including meals.
